Bleeding when flossing and brushing means there is inflammation present and where there is inflammation present c-reactive proteins multiply and flourish. C-reactive proteins are the enzymes that are produced by the liver when inflammation is present. When a person has clogged arteries, heart attacks, liver or lung disease, these enzymes are present in the diseased tissues. We have always known that the mouth is a window to the body. Our oral health connects to our general health. It is very important to keep the inflammation in our mouth low to keep bacteria counts low.

Exposed toothbrushes, even in the cleanest bathroom environments, can be a breeding ground for harmful bacteria. Studies show that upwards of 10,000,000 microorganisms can thrive on toothbrush bristles at any given time. Scary thought, isn't it? Keep your toothbrush germ-free by using VIOLight Toothbrush Sanitizer, available for purchase at our office or directly through VIOLight – ask us for more information.

Fun Fact

An elephant's tooth can weigh more than six pounds.
